A LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

By Liliana (Y6)

Welcome to the MPJ Newsletter. Every two weeks, the MPJ News Team work together to send out a newsletter full of amazing articles, stories, reviews, facts and quizzes.

My name is Liliana. I came up with the idea of making a newsletter where all students can take part.

Any student can have their work printed into the newsletter. All you have to do is pick up a form from the red letterboxes around school. The red letterboxes can be found at the top of the year 5/6 stairs and by Mrs Wright's Office.

You can post recommendations for books, facts, draw a picture or anything that you think would be interesting.

When you have written/drawn your work, post it into the letterboxes and soon you will see them in print!

WORD AWARE

By Saffah (Y4)

Adjure: to urge someone to do something.

"I adjure you to tell the truth."

SCIENCE ARTICLE

By Brooke (Y5)

Did you know that humans and chimps share 98.5% of their genes? This means that we share the same ancestors as apes.

In other words, over many years, people have evolved (changed) from something that resembles an ape, to the humans that we are now.

FACT FILE ARTICLE

By Beaux (Y5)

Here are some facts about Greek mythology!

- Present day Athens is named after the Greek goddess Athena.
- Atlas is the leader of the Titans, and holds the world up. His name is also where the book, an Atlas, comes from.
- Many gods and goddess names inspire modern words.

HALF TERM - HALLOWEEN

Next week is half term and it is also the time of the year that we celebrate Halloween.

If you carve any pumpkins over the half term, bring in a picture so we can see how talented you all are!

Enjoy your half term.
We will see you all back in school on Tuesday 1st November.

STUDENT ART WORK

By Dominika (Y4)
